2ND CONSULTATION EVENT

Thank you for visiting this second public consultation event relating to the proposals for New Brunstane.

At the first event, back in March, we explained our vision for New Brunstane, together with the emerging masterplan proposals for the site. This was informed by our understanding of the site, its wider context and technical constraints. It was also our response to the site brief and development principles for the Brunstane housing site (HSG 29) in the Edinburgh Local Development Plan Second Proposed Plan.

The second event sets out the feedback we received from the first event and where possible, at this stage of the planning process, our response to this, including changes to the proposals. This concludes with the revised masterplan proposals.

Further information on the scope of the forthcoming application for 'Planning Permission in Principle' is included, together with a summary of anticipated next steps in the planning process.

A further feedback form is available for any additional comments, prior to the submission of the planning application.

2 STOREY HOUSING TOWARDS THE LANDSCAPE EDGES OF THE SITE

RECAP: 1ST CONSULTATION EVENT

Our first event was held on Tuesday 8th March 2016.

At the event, we set out the following:

- Our vision for New Brunstane
- Planning policy context and the application process
- Site context and proposed design principles
- Site constraints, in particular technical and engineering aspects
- The emerging masterplan proposals, focussing on movement, place, landscape, uses and builtform

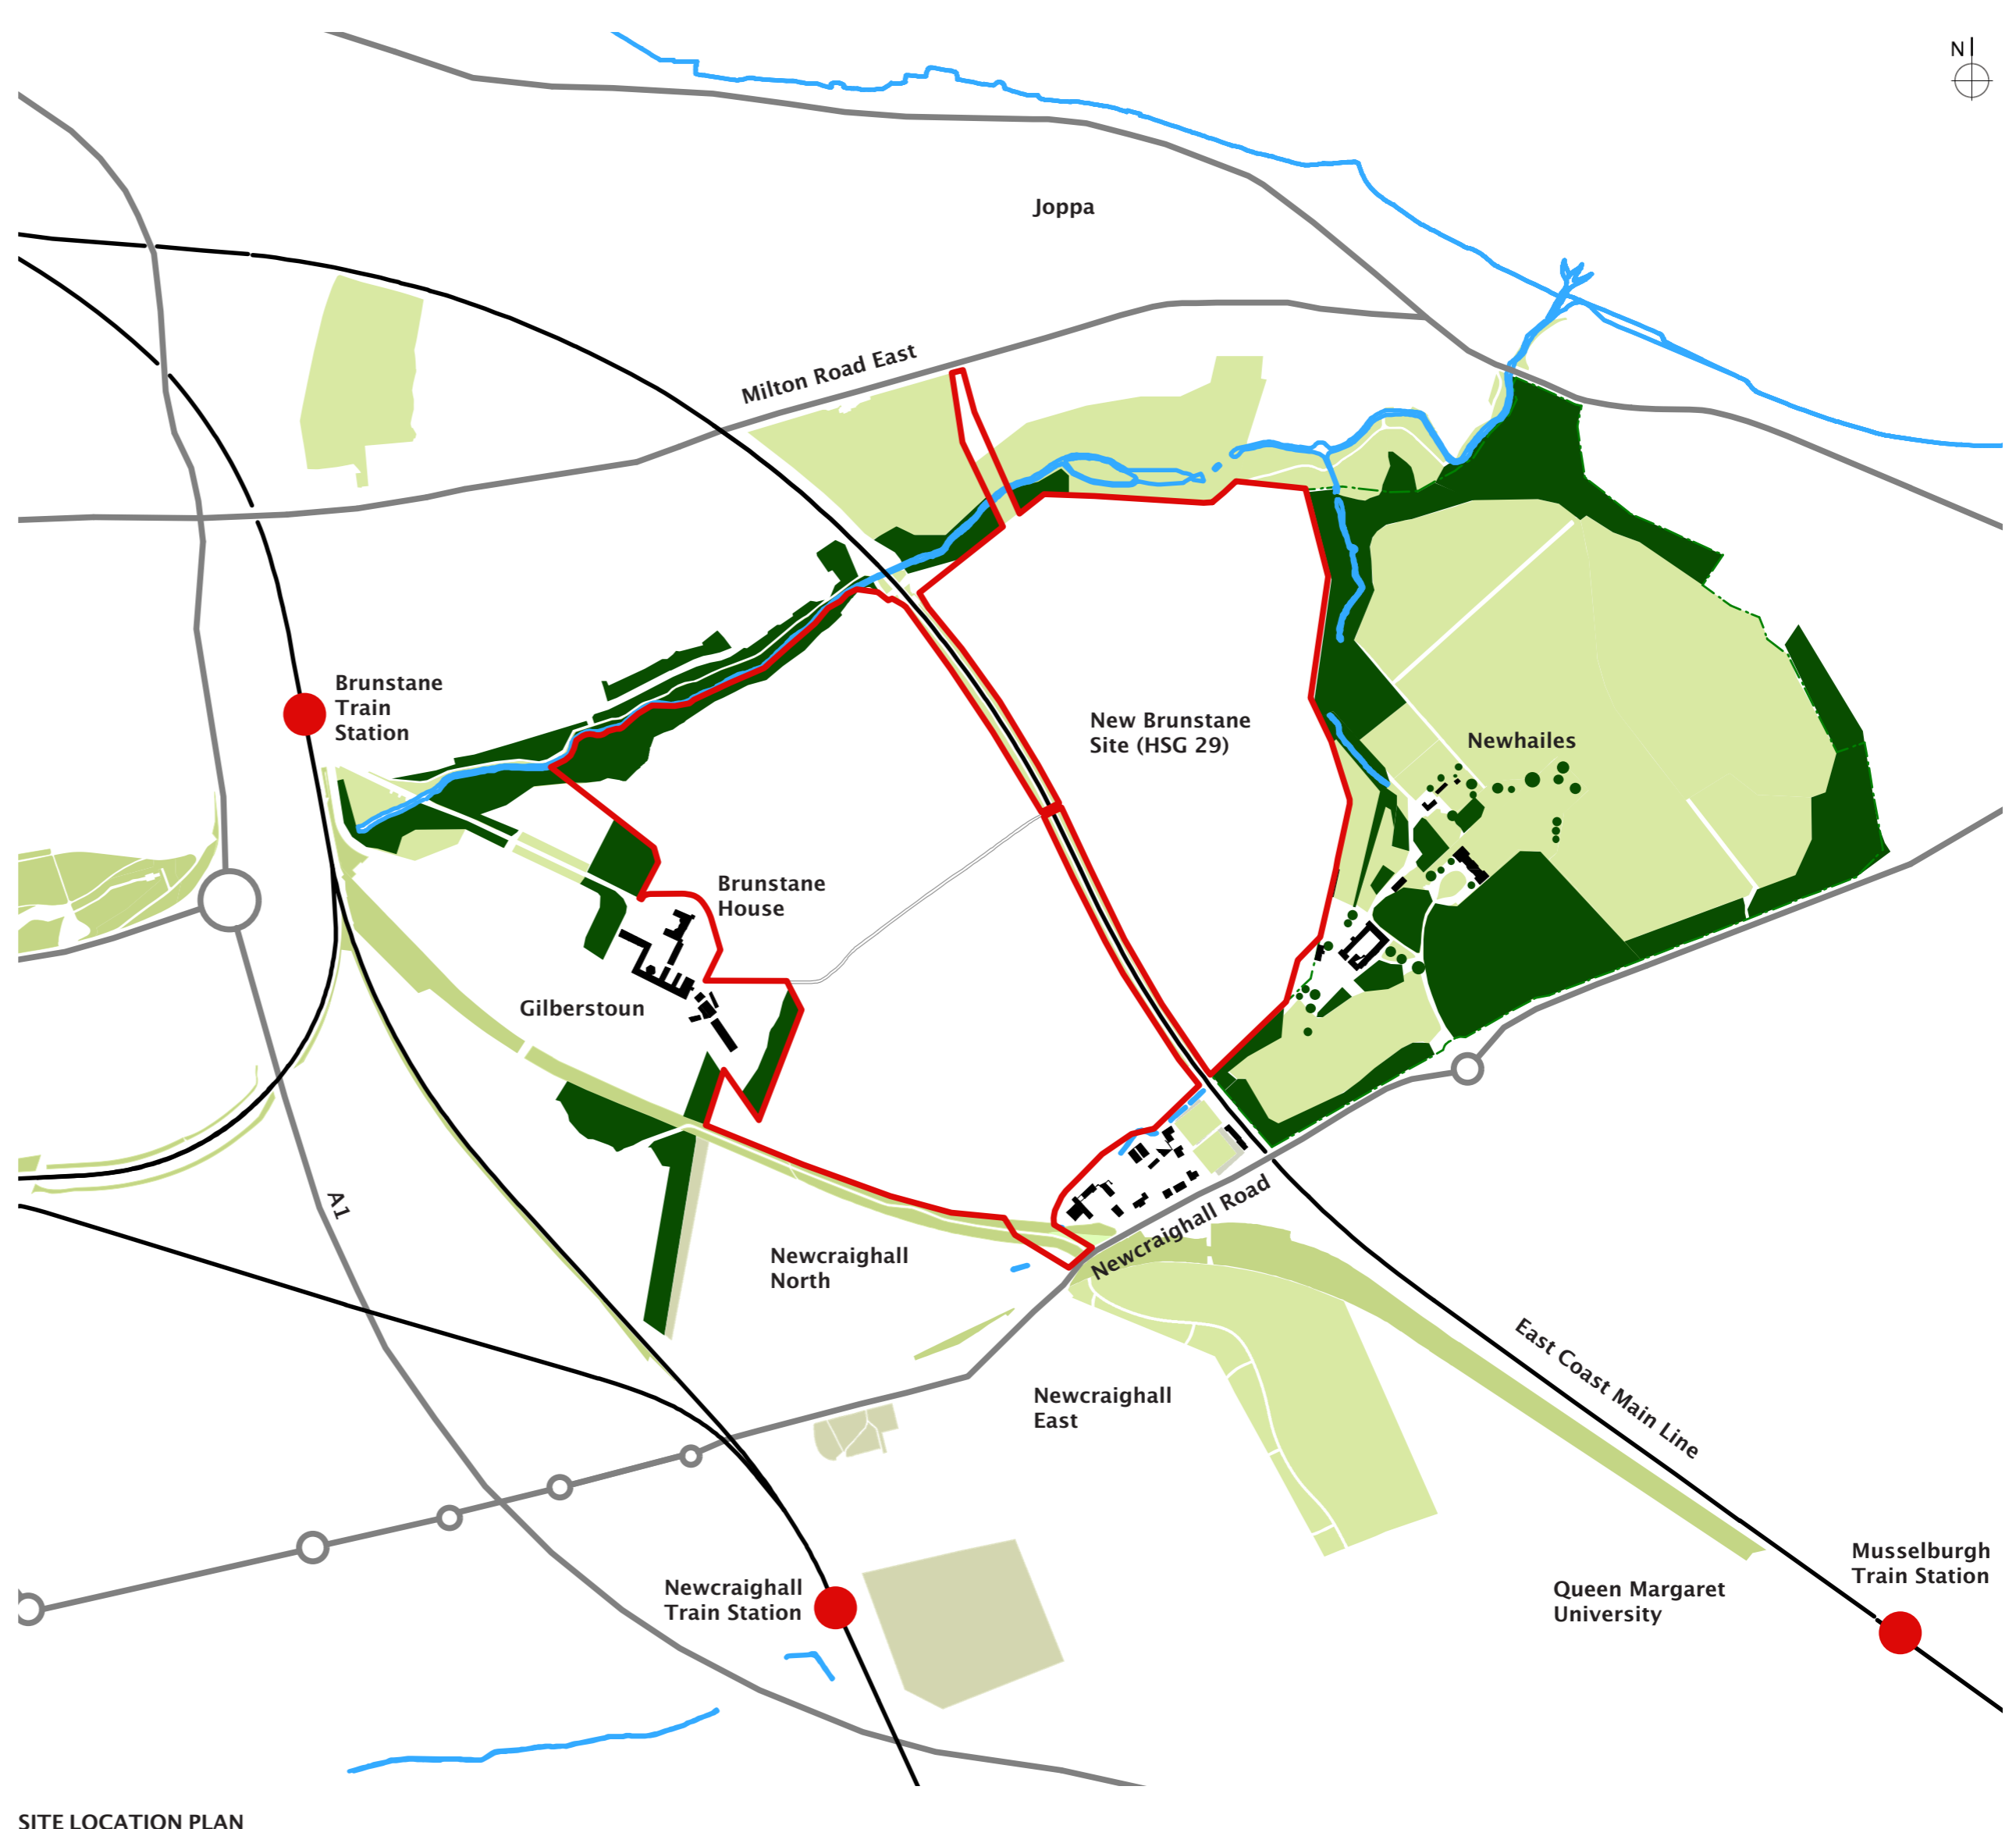

A feedback form asked five questions based around the different topics and issues set out on the exhibition boards and summarised above. A space was also left for any other comments.

The exhibition boards and feedback form were made available on-line, from the day of the event onwards.

Immediately after the event, they were also made available to view at Portobello Library and The White House in Craigmillar. Feedback forms and drop box were available at both locations.

292 people attended the event and a total of 137 feedback forms were received. The feedback received has been used to inform some of the material presented at the second event. This is set out on the boards that follow.

The feedback board summarises the feedback received, according to the questions posed in the feedback form, together with other comments raised. Given the amount of feedback forms received, we have summarised this below into key headings, themes and messages. All feedback will be outlined in greater detail in a Report of Consultation which will be submitted with the forthcoming planning application.
